OPEN CALL FOR ARTISTIC GROUPS

The Project "Cherchez la femme"/"Search the woman" is now completed. On this occasion, disabled and non-disabled people recite the poem "Hymn in praise of the women we love" by Nikos Eggonopoulos.

In the reciting participated individuals from the EKEK of LAKKIA, the musical-theatrical group "Erodios", and the KDAP for people with disabilities of Sykees.

You can listen to the poem here.

The International iRoDi Festival has announced an open invitation for artistic groups to participate in the 5th Festival that will take place from the 3rd to the 10th of December 2023 in Thessaloniki. The proposals must be relevant to the Festival's content and contribute to enhancing self-determination, education, social inclusion, and emancipation of people with disabilities.

The deadline for submissions is on the 30th of September. Interested groups can submit their proposals either in person or online.

The Canellopoulos Museum hosts the installation "AN ARCHAEOLOGY OF DISABILITY" and attempts to approach the ancient past without the barrier of ableism, which is set by modern ideas about disability.

The installation employs media that are friendly to people with disabilities such as haptic reconstructions, narrations in Greek and American sign language, and audio narrations in Greek and English, and offers a multisensorial interpretation of the Acropolis entrance (the so-called Propylaia).

The exhibition will be open until October 30th. For more information click here.

To make the world of art accessible to everyone the International iRoDi Festival initiated and created an online accessible library. The goal is to include literature texts, novels, and poems as well as audiovisual material from projects to make access to the information easier because a lot of people struggle due to the distance from the libraries, the economic difficulties, or their disability. Our accessible library is constantly renewed!

In the context of training our volunteers, a new training session was conducted on June 28th. The focus was “Personal Assistant and its pilot program in Greece” in cooperation with Mr. Spyros Dadanidis, Cinematographer, CoCreator of “Cool Crips”, and Vise President of “Walking” Society. Firstly, the term “disabled” was defined based on the social model of disability. In addition, the definition and the role of the “Personal Assistant” (occupational rights, training, boundaries between the disabled person and the assistant, etc.) were discussed. Furthermore, the issues of family members becoming personal assistants, the option of live-in assistants, and the holes in the relative Greek legislation were addressed. Finally, a few good practices and examples from abroad were mentioned.
