

Tel. +30 2310-891524

e-mail: ipapav@uom.edu.gr

Website: <https://www.uom.gr/en/ipapav>

Ioanna Papavassiliou is an Associate Professor in Career Guidance and Counselling at the Department of Educational and Social Policy, University of Macedonia in Thessaloniki, Greece. She was born in Athens. She graduated from the Philosophical School of Athens (1987) and did her PHD in Career Guidance and Counselling at the University of Heidelberg in Germany, Faculty of Social and Behavioural Sciences. She was also a Visiting Research Fellow at Teachers College of Columbia University, New York (September 1995-April 1996). During her studies she was a scholar of the Greek Scholaships Foundation (1990-1993) and of the University of Heidelberg (1994-1995). Her doctoral thesis: “Preparing Youth for Occupational Choice in the Federal Republic of Germany and Greece” was supervised by Prof. Dr. V. Lenhart and published (1996) in the series Heidelberger Studien zur Erziehungswissenschaft, Peter Lang. Since then she has been collaborating with universities and guidance institutions in Germany, Greece and other European countries in the context of reearch projects. From 2003 to 2012 she worked as a Tutor in the Greek Open University, Graduate Studies in Adult Education. Her research interests focus in the fields of Lifelong Guidance and Counselling, Career and Professional Development, Career Managemenet Skills’ development and Educational & Vocational Inclusion of disadvantaged groups. On these topics she has published in Greek and international scientific journals, conference proceedings or as book chapters. She speaks fluently English, German and sufficiently French. She resides in Thessaloniki, is married and has three children.